¹ Where the Government requested a sentence within a narrower part of the Guidelines range, such as “within the bottom half” or “near the middle,” this request has been converted into the corresponding number of months for purposes of this chart.

² Gibbs’s case involved an aggravating enhancement for obstruction of justice, due to obstructive conduct and evidence of additional bribery that came to light after the PSR was issued. Gibbs and Julio Figuerola (who were not part of the February 2024 70-defendant arrests) were sentenced prior to the effective date of U.S.S.G. Section 4C1.1 and therefore their Guidelines calculations do not include any zero-point offender reduction.

⁵ Harris's Guidelines range did not include any offense level reduction for acceptance of responsibility and included two additional points for obstruction because the defendant committed perjury when she testified at trial. The sentence of 24 months' imprisonment recommended by the Probation Office was based on a Guidelines range of 33 to 41 months' imprisonment. The sentence requested by the Government was based on the revised Guidelines range of 41 to 51 months' imprisonment.
